Got your letter. There is no need of any philosophy, much less of any dogmatism. Please do not think of Krishna as a separate entity except as a centre of all pre-, sub- and conscious gravitation – of all centrifugal and centripetal energies.

The question is not to learn to know Krishna but to get rid of all personal dried up channels of thoughts and feelings. What you need is freedom and the break-through towards the joy of the joy of all joys – i.e. burdenless-ness.

There is no good of thinking repeatedly what others think about the world and God and Self – the thoughts of others are not the bounds of your own experience.

First you are not to understand or imagine yourself as a jnani, as a bhakta or anything else, you please try to start like a child anew and feel the pulsation of life in everything and love everything and you can start to do that if you see everything – persons, plants, animals, stars or what it may be – from its point of view not relating it to you – let everything be what it is and do not harm it – just forget to try to master anything not even your own being – why? – because by depriving things, persons and yourself of their own being, you see, realize and dominate shadows, misunderstanding, non-reality.

Freedom and bondage are terms of ignorance only – if you have the courage to throw away all the rubbish of cliché's, others have used you can have a chance to meet me on the path of “Beyond-Reality” as a comrade and friend on the same path.

I try to meet you in Sweden at fall-time – if you feel you should.

Do not force yourself to follow the way of others who “enjoy” to vegetate in the strait-jacket of “isms” and must-s.

From heart to heart
Your Sadananda
